

1/9/18

I Had my sidewalks shoveled and salted.
The problem is that they did not touch my neighbors at all and theirs were completely covered over with snow. I took pictures of their sidewalks for the next few days and they never came to do their sidewalk! Is this because they are good friends with them and they get to pick and choose who's gets done and who's doesn't?

Pictures of the neighbors sidewalk the day they did mine and 3 days after mine. Never touched theirs!! Looks worse than mine was! Friends get a free pass I guess! I would not be fighting this if they would do everybody's and not let close friends get by with free passes! Not good business practice if you ask me! Good way to make a bad name for the city!

Subject: Snow Removal Violation - 515 McKay Way

Raynelle,

Thank you for getting back to me regarding my objection to the ticket I recently received for failure to remove snow from the sidewalk at the my residence on 515 McKay Way.

Unfortunately, I have work commitments and cannot attend the meeting later this evening. Please allow this narrative to summarize my thoughts as foundation for my objection.

In the ten years I have lived in my residence on McKay Way, I have come to know that, being the westernmost house on a street with strong, prevailing westerly winds, snow frequently is blown onto my driveway and sidewalk. This makes it problematic to maintain; however, I have consistently been mindful and attentive to this challenge.

The properties directly to my west are vacant and the sidewalks are typically maintained by either the city or contract workers affiliated with the city. The 'rule-of-thumb' that I have developed over time has been to follow the lead of the city/contractors maintaining the sidewalks. In my experience, shoveling my sidewalk prior to the westerly properties often results in a need to perform the task twice and even more, due to blowing snow. The habit I have developed is to wait until the city has cleared the vacant sidewalks, and then clear mine.

At the time I was assessed the ticket, the sidewalks to the west of my property had not been cleared, yet I was assessed a violation.

I don't feel this ticket is appropriate and I cordially request it be rescinded.

Sincerely,

Lee Stock | Director Total Rewards and HR Operations
